Poetry.

Midsummer.

BY R. W. EMMERSON.

Around this lovely valley rise
The purple hills of Paradise.
Oh, softly on your banks of haze
Her roses are the sunnier days!
Beamed along the sunny sky,
The eagles of the mountain fly,
Whose clouds, with many a shining rift,
Far off their pearl-white peaks uplift.
Through all the long midsummer day
The meadow sides are sweet with hay,
I seek the coolest sheltered seat,
Just where the field and forest meet,
Where grow the trees tall and stately,
The ancient oaks ancient and grand,
And young woods and poplars fresh
The rippling of the rivulet.
I watch the mowers as they go
Through the tall grass a white-sleeved row;
With even strokes their scythes they swing,
In tune their merry whistling ring.
Behind the meadow youngsters run
And toss the thick swaths in the sun;
The cattle graze, the pigeons coo,
The quail hops among the bushes,
And children in their busy games
The whole dappled landscape claim.
The butterfly and humble-bee
Come to the pleasant woods with me;
Quickly before me runs the quail,
The chickens skulk behind the rail,
And the woodpecker pecks and flits,
Sweet woodland music sinks and swells,
The brooklet rings its tinkling bells,
The swarming insects drone and hum,
The partridge beats his tinkling drum,
The squirrel leaps among the boughs,
And children in their busy games
The whole dappled landscape claim.
The quail dashes by, and look!
Into the mirror of the brook,
Where the vain blue-bird tries his coat,
Two tiny feathers fall and float.
As silently, as tenderly,
The dawn of peace descends on me,
Oh, this is peace! I have no need
Of friend to talk, or book to read;
A dear Companion here abides;
Close to my thrilling heart he hides;
The holy silence is his voice;
I live and listen, and rejoice.

Butter or Cheese?

In central New York there appears to have been for the last ten years such a mania in behalf of converting milk into cheese instead of butter that the latter has become quite ignored and high in price. The papers in that section have been filled with accounts of the different cheese factories and the prevailing prices from week to week. We have for some time been well assured in our own minds that the business was being run into the ground—that is, overdone—and so it proves to be. Cheese manufacturers and dairymen who supply the milk are both complaining that the ruling prices of cheese are getting to be too low, affording so little profit to the business as not to make it an object of sufficient importance to many of them engaged in it.

Thus, while butter is yearly commanding higher prices and milk and cream have advanced, affording good profits, cheese is falling, and we may add will continue to do so until butter-making and cheese-making occupy a compensating attitude towards each other. It is so whenever farmers or persons in another line of business throw all their capital and energies into specialties.

If farmers will all rush into butter-making, butter will fall from an over-supply. So with cheese or with potatoes or grain of any kind. It has been so with wool-raising. When the rebellion broke out there was a great demand for woolen goods, prices for the raw material rose enormously, and the farmers of the West and East rushed into wool-growing, and the result is just the same. It will be so with the grape and wine business after a while. If a large number of city merchants, owing to the high price of coffee, tea, or any particular fabric, should make large importations and overstock the market, there would be but one result—effect following cause.

This being so, we think that the suggestions which we have often made to the general farmer to follow a system of mixed husbandry is the best in the long run, the profits being far more certain and the risk a great deal less.—German-town Telegraph.

COLUMBUS.

THIS celebrated trotting stallion will serve mares the present season at

E. H. BEAL'S STABLES!

Bakersfield, Vt.

Columbus is so well known in Franklin County that it is hardly necessary to say a word of his value to farmers who wish to raise valuable colts were as universally known as trotters. He stands very high in New York. He was never known to be the best "Stallion," and took the first premium as such, at the Westchester County Fair. At the request of many of the present owners of Franklin County Vt. and the present season for Mares. In order to give entire satisfaction to all of the many friends of the horse, the price has been fixed low. The average weight of his colts is from 15 to 16 hands high, and weigh from 10 to 1,200 lbs.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, the St. Albans Bank, a corporation, duly incorporated by the Legislature of the State of Vermont, located and doing business at St. Albans, in the county of Franklin, has made application to me, requesting me to issue a proclamation designating some day for the termination of the existence of said corporation;

And whereas, it has been made to appear to me that two-thirds of the legal votes of the stockholders of said corporation were given in favor of said application.
Now, therefore, I, Paul Dillingham, Governor of the State of Vermont, in conformity with said application, and the provisions of section eight-six and eighty-seven of chapter eighty-nine of the General Statutes of Vermont, do hereby issue my proclamation, and declare that on the twenty-fourth day of March, A. D. 1868, the said corporation shall cease to exist as fully and with the same effect as if said charter expired by the limitation thereof.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto signed my name and caused the seal of the State of Vermont to be hereunto affixed, in Executive Chambers at Waterbury, this 23rd day of September, A. D. 1867, and of the independence of the United States the 91st.
